THE "TREATY PORTS OF CHINA & JAPAN," AND "NOTES AND QUERIES ON CHINA AND JAPAN.

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS. (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of "Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of Chine and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the' subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better known in India.

(From the "Strarts Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark | each. upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has | will be delivered free at the places of its again been called to the subject by the re- destination, ceipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on China and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saiut, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

(From the "London Examiner," May

This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan" is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys : and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds, considerably enhance its value. * * * ·We have thus given in outline some of the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghae, and the remainder of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing

Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and dontain so much that is new to European readers respecting its history, public buil dings, and general characteristics, that we would fain transfer them to our columns

A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places. In the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography and limits, which will be found particularly interesting as throwing a considerable ligh on a part of the world so long entirely, and still comparatively, unknown to Europeans. The descriptions of Nagasaki, Yedo, Yokohama and the other Treaty Ports Japan, are as elaborate and entertaining as those of the Chinese ports. A copious index and a useful appendix containing many hints and much appropriate advice to travellers and others, is also included in the volume. The entire work affords a vest amount of information, pleasantly written,

REVIEW.*

THE day has almost gone by for the ap pearance of works from which authors, while achieving scholarly reputation, are content to reap but a small portion, if any, of those golden inducements which are the mainspring of modern literary Occasionally, however, some work appears of this nature, and, welcomed by the earnest student, makes one regret that the hours of labour bestowed upon an abstruse study are likely to meet Fortunately for the age there are still production is in itself a reward, and to belongs. The Tao Te King, as the work is entitled in Chinese, is the classic of Tauism, and is ascribed to Laou Keun, or Lau taze, as he generally called, (th former being, however, his subsequent ar nellation) who was born about 604 B.C sect which numbers its adherents by millions, any details of his life and writings possess an interest of a special character. Some lifty years the senior of Confucius Chalmers, in his introduction, refers to an interview between the two sages, recorded by Sze ma Tsien, in which Lau taze is represented as appraiding Confucius for his ambition and somewhat rebuking the extreme veneration for the ancients which was a distinguishing feature of the Confucian school. 8. W. Williams thus summarises the characteristics of the writings of the sage.

"The writings of this teacher, unlike those of Confucius, seldom refer to ancient models or personages; he derives his ideas of real son and virtue entirely from his own conand travestied by his followers, and their notions, both of the reason they pretend to settle the affair. THE NEW TREATY.

(S. C. & Consular Gazette, Nov. 7.) We notice in the papers received by the last mail that the supplementary treaty with China concluded with the United States through the medium of the Chinese Ambassador, Mr Burlingame, has been the subject of considerable notice, and is regarded by the leading journal in England in by no means a favourable light as bearing upon the interests of foreign nations in this country. The Times, however, in common with the China press, seems to regard this instrument as of less import than it is. when one clause, namely the 5th, is taken into due consideration. By that article, it most directly opposite from yesterday. is declared that "the United States of The Clan Alpine and the various private America and the Emperor of China cordially recognize the inherent and inclienable right of man to change his home and allegiance, and also the mutual a vantage of migration and emigration of their citizens and subjects respectively from the one country to the other, for the purposes of curiosity, trade, or as permanent residents." Amidst much that is entirely irrelevant this clause, especially when taken in connection with the last portion of the follow ing clause, stands out, as it seems to us, with singular prominence, and deserves careful consideration. Its bearing upon the future of China may prove to be made the means of establishing such an influence on the part of America in Chinese affairs, as, under the peculiar state of the buy the property and did not want foreign | course of a few years naturalized citizens tenants. From a placard at a Tea house of the United States, would return to China in the street where the property stands, under their newly acquired jurisdiction however, it is pretty clear that coercion and and the Emperor, having formally recog intolerance are at the bottom of the matter, nized the inherent right of his subjects to change their allegiance, could not interfere "Notice.—The residents of this district | with their claiming the full rights of Amehave met in Council, and agreed upon the rican citizens in their own country. afterwards. —A respectful notice! -- Resolv-! possibly be subjected to an interpretation! at some future date, which might be extremely unpalatable to China. Are the words: "China cordially recognizes the inherent and inalienable right of man change his home and his allegiance" susceptible of the interpretation that a Chinaman may change his allegiance without making an alteration in his place of abode If ever this question arose, there would clearly be very much to be said upon both sides; but Weakness argues badly with Strength; and, probably before the matter became the subject of formal negociation or discussion, much would have already occurred to add to the arguments for its solution in favour of the latter. That the Government of the United States is desirous to maintain to the utmost its influence over naturalized citizens is proved by the earnestness with which precisely this point has been repeatedly urged upon European nations and especially which they reside, and in England, among other things, as to the composition of Ju- | cox.), 53 st. 8 lb. but in China, where such citizenship would exempt the man enjoying it from all his birth, its bearing may be of incalculathat the United States Government in obtaining the consent of the Chinese Ambassador to this clause, was influenced by an idea of actually working the concession as a lever to establish an American Protectorate in China. However desirous to see their influence in these quarters extended, the people of the United States would, we imagine, scarcely be prepared for such a responsibility as this. The account to which the step might, however, be turned is to ensure that, if China sought the aid of any other power in this respect, America might claim an equal share in the jurisdiction; and, in fact, perpetuate, under an Imperial form, the system of joint action, of whose merits when applied merely to local matters, we had so admirable an illustration. when one Consul was able to blow a hole through a compact with regard to pilotage agreed to by all the other foreign powers in this country. We do not believe that anything worse for the interests of China and the whole world could be brought about than the attempt—and attempt only it would assuredly be-to establish a joint protectorate over this Empire. For China. it would be but the perpetuation of a vicious and corrupt system, to which we should lend our material strength; while waters and has had no occasion to try the as the whole history of our intercourse with market in Japan, for Messrs T. Kroes & this nation shows, we should be able to do

> THE revising barrister at Manchester has had the formidable Miss Becker to deal with. He hastily assumed that Mary Boddy was a woman, and Miss Becker called upon him to prove it. She said that Roman Catholics gave the name of Mary sometimes to boys. The barrister offered to take her evidence if she would tell him the applicant was not a lady. This she declined, and Mary Boddy was struck off the list.

The weather in the forenoon appeared even more favourable for the pulling races than yesterday, but as a counterbalancing disadvantage, the wind was scarcely strong enough to afford the sailing yachts a fair chance. By noon, however, the breeze sprung up, and by the time of starting, the weather was much the same as yesterday, except that the wind was not so steady and strong, and the quarter from whence it came was alboats again mustered a fair show of visitors, and the attractions of the competition for the "Ladies Purse" had evidently exerted a favourable influence on the presence of the fairer portion of the spectators. As before however the start was unduly delayed. The detention was begun as usual by the White Cloud arriving twenty minutes after the stated time for the starting of the first race; and although the race for cutters was not started at all, the second did not get away till | Seventh Race, 4.30 P.M.—For Single Pair five minutes before two o'clock.

GERMAN EMIGRATION TO AMERICA. -Bdron von Beust, the Austrian Minister; recently said he thought Germany ought to devise some means to prevent the emigration to America of such great masses of the population, as it was taking from Germany strength and wealth which ought to be retained at home. The question is also attracting attention in Prussia, and we find it discussed with some intelligence in a French iournal, which says the exodus is greatly disturbing the Prussiaus. We are told that it is in the old, but especially in the new Prussian Provinces, and in the States of the confederation of the North, that the emigration of this year is principally recruited. Now, the majority of those Provinces, and more particularly those of Northern and Eastern Prussia, are in need of men and money, so that the expatriation so considerable constitutes for them a double loss, The inhabitants of the South German States. which formerly furn shed to the United States the largest contingent of the German emigration now remain at home, while those of Prussia and the Provinces, more or less annexed to it, have suddenly roplaced them on the rout to the New World. The French dournal to which we have referred save that the emigration is due to the discontent occasioned by the conquest of the House of Höhenzollern, the rigors of the military service, the large increase of taxes, and the THE Emperor Don Pedro of Brazil, and tables in Chap. VII, for estimating prices, measurement of goods, exchanges, &c. have been selected from those constantly in use among the foreign merchants in China. Those for calculating the prices of tea in dollars or pence have been copied from the more extended tables, by the kind permis sion of the author, P. Loureiro, Esq. The last section of the same chapter on Movements in Bullion," has been prepared and furnished for the Guide by Patrick R. Harper, Esq., of the Commercial Bank of India at Hongkong, who has had much experience in the exchanges and movements of the precious metals in Eastern Asia.

"The Appendix of Sailing Directions has been reprinted from the China Pilot. With short interruptions, the coasts from Singapore to Hakodadi are all described in it; and for the Chinese coasts, the Directions have been improved by the insertion of the Chinese characters for the names of all places that could be ascertained."
